

Due to its beaches and now casinos, CT is more of a destination state than ever before. The revenue that tolls would provide would surely help to maintain our roads, without creating an additional tax burden on CT residents. Electronic toll stations are safer than our previously manned toll booths, which should negate the argument that toll booths are dangerous. They are present in many of our surrounding states. Since the tax burden on Ct residents is one of the highest in the nation, we should consider bringing back tolls to ease that burden.

Thank you,
Susan Leff
Niantic, CT

Sent from my iPhone